Hiring Manager
Stichting Women Win
Amsterdam, Netherlands

Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm excited to apply for the Learn Team Internship at Women Win. As a computer science student and web developer passionate about using technology for social good, I'm drawn to Women Win's mission of advancing gender justice through data, learning, and collaboration.

I have a strong foundation in data analysis, cleaning, and visualisation, with experience using tools like Excel, Google Sheets, and Canva to organise, interpret, and present information clearly. My background in web development has also strengthened my attention to detail, logical thinking, and ability to work independently on focused, data-driven tasks all of which align with the goals of the Learn Team.

Beyond my technical side, I deeply value inclusivity and learning environments that empower women and girls. I believe that data is not just numbers, it's a powerful story-telling tool that can shape better decisions and more equitable outcomes. I'm eager to contribute my skills to help Women Win uncover insights that drive meaningful change.

One unique quality I bring is a blend of tech creativity and social impact awareness. I approach every project with empathy and curiosity. My question for the team would be: How does Women Win ensure that insights gathered from data directly influence program design and decision-making across its funds?

Thank you for considering my application. I'd be honoured to join your inspiring team and learn from the impactful work you're doing.

Warm regards,
Nwimo Goodluck Chioma
